Weekly catch up
This week is the last week for this term. We will be having our end of term night on Friday night. We have invited some Korean visitors along on the night to cook some special Korean food and talk to the children about some cultural differences between living in Korea and Australia. They are very keen to come and meet our small community. They have put together a menu already which really shows how keen they are to make an impression. This week we have been doing some learning around the Korean culture. The Korean people are typically very shy so it will be hard for them to talk but I am sure they will teach our students something new.

School Photos
You should be receiving your school photos today. Please make sure you have everything you ordered. If you have any problems please give us a call so we can sort it out ASAP.

Report cards
Parents should be receiving their child's academic report for this semester. Please make sure your child gives it to you. You should also receive a timetable for parent teacher interviews next term in week 2. Please fill in a time that suits you and return it ASAP. If you have more than one time that suits you please feel free to list a couple of possible times.

Term 2 - week 1
Next term starts with a bang. On the first Tuesday back we will be going to Burnett State College for NAIDOC activities. On the Thursday we have the small schools athletics carnival. This all happens in the first week.

End of term night
The night will start at 6pm on Friday night. We are aware that children will be tired and ready to start their holidays early so Friday night will start at 6 and be a short and sweet evening. It is an evening for families and friends within our small community to catch up.

Tuckshop
Sausage on Bread with sauce. A popper and a packet of chips. $4.50 Please pay by Thursday as it is end of financial year and all moneys needs to be banked.
Some Benefits of Reading

1. Mental Stimulation - Studies have shown that staying mentally stimulated can slow the progress of (or possibly even prevent) Alzheimer’s and Dementia, since keeping your brain active and engaged prevents it from losing power. Just like any other muscle in the body, the brain requires exercise to keep it strong and healthy, so the phrase “use it or lose it” is particularly apt when it comes to your mind. Doing puzzles and playing games such as chess have also been found to be helpful with cognitive stimulation.

2. Stress Reduction - No matter how much stress you have at work, in your personal relationships, or countless other issues faced in daily life, it all just slips away when you lose yourself in a great story. A well-written novel can transport you to other realms, while an engaging article will distract you and keep you in the present moment, letting tensions drain away and allowing you to relax.

3. Knowledge - Everything you read fills your head with new bits of information, and you never know when it might come in handy. The more knowledge you have, the better-equipped you are to tackle any challenge you’ll ever face. Additionally, here’s a bit of food for thought: should you ever find yourself in dire circumstances, remember that although you might lose everything else—your job, your possessions, your money, even your health—knowledge can never be taken from you.

4. Memory Improvement - When you read a book, you have to remember an assortment of characters, their backgrounds, ambitions, history, and nuances, as well as the various arcs and sub-plots that weave their way through every story. That’s a fair bit to remember, but brains are marvellous things and can remember these things with relative ease. Amazingly enough, every new memory you create forges new synapses (brain pathways) and strengthens existing ones, which assists in short-term memory recall.
"Imagination is more important than knowledge. Knowledge is limited. Imagination encircles the world."
